Former Saints Player Michael Lewis Visits Kingsley House

With the help of the New Orleans Saints, the nonprofit, J.U.G.G.I.E (Joining Underprivileged Generations Growing In Education), Every Child Matters and Kingsley House, former Saints Pro-Bowl Punt Return Specialist, Michael Lewis, spoke to Kingsley House Head Start students on the importance of health care and education on October 7th.

"Prevention is everything when it comes to maintaining a healthy lifestyle," said Lewis. "I'm happy to be part of such a positive effort that recognizes the critical need to educate our kids about the importance of developing good eating habits and getting yearly check-ups as they get older."

The local event was part of the wide array of "Step Up" activities that took place in every state and in Washington, D.C. during Step Up for Kids week, October 5-9, 2009. The Every Child Matters Education Fund (ECMEF) sponsored the annual "Step Up for Kids" week, giving organizations and individuals a chance to celebrate their children while at the same time calling for solutions to the issues confronting them. As people stepped up for kids across the nation, they asked public officials to directly address the needs of children and families as they make their budgetary decisions and to shift spending priorities in the direction of our most valuable assets. Kingsley House would like to thank Every Child Matters for allowing us to take part in this special day.

Kingsley House PSA on WDSU

It was lights, camera, action at Kingsley House this fall. Throughout the months of September and October, WDSU filmed a PSA at Kingsley House. The purpose of the PSA was to make the public more aware of the organization's programs. It is now airing on WDSU.

The PSA was made possible through a sponsorship by WDSU courtesy of Board Member Joel Vilmenay. The production and air time of the PSA is equivalent to more than $30,000 of production cost and coverage.
