Deloitte and Touche, LLP Impact Day benefits Kingsley House

Bernadine Givens and Patricia Lewis

70 Deloitte and Touche staff celebrated their annual IMPACT Day volunteering at Kingsley House on June 11th.

Deloitte volunteers helped with landscaping, initial preparations for a future soccer field, preschool activities, summer camp and adult day care. Kingsley House thanks Deloitte and Touche for their tremendous support. "We did not have enough staff to accomplish these important tasks and we are so grateful," said Kingsley House Director of Support Services Libby Milton. Deloitte also generously covered the cost of supplies for the various projects on campus.

Deloitte's IMPACT Day is a one-day celebration of its year-round commitment to helping people and local communities. IMPACT Day provides Deloitte's employees a chance to contribute to their communities, while also giving them the opportunity to develop important skills such as leadership, teamwork and networking opportunities. Deloitte chose Kingsley House because it wanted to make an impact on a well established and respected organization that itself has a major impact in the community.

Campus News

Kingsley House participants leaped into summer with an array of activities. In May our Head Start and Early Head Start students hosted a fashion show in the gym. Parents and families watched their children strut their stuff down the runway. Fashions included formal wear, summer sundresses and a variety of swimwear.

June kicked off with the annual Adult Services Father's Day Celebration. Reverend L. Gerome Smith performed a sermon focusing on family and participants danced to the sounds of The Friends of William Smith Band. Each of the fathers received a special gift courtesy of the Adult Services staff.

Please visit our website and check out the upcoming events section for more information on activities around campus.
